Chinese Red Collapse Indicated In Central Korea

Crew, Several Hundred Men Aboard Vessel

Tokyo, Monday, (AP)—An Allied troopship reported breaking up and in danger of sinking in a storm-lashed sea 35 miles off southwest Japan today failed to answer radio calls of rescue ships.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters said it was believed the several hundred United Nations troops and crew had been put ashore on a small island a quarter-mile from the grounded ship.

The ship, the Japanese-owned Kongo Maru, was driven aground last night by a howling typhoon 35 miles west of Sasebo, port of Japan's southernmost main island of Kyushu.

Ridgway's headquarters did not disclose the nationality of the Allied troops. They were enroute from Sasebo to Pusan, Korea.

Several rescue ships were plowing through heavy seas toward the stranded vessel.

National police headquarters reported earlier that the ship, under lease to the U.S. Maritime service, was in danger of sinking.

It said their last report was received from the ship at 9 a.m. (7 p.m., EST, Sunday) and at that time none of the passengers had been removed.

Troops at that time were reported huddled in the ship's cabin as huge waves crashed over the masts.

Among the ships racing to the rescue was the transport George C. Clymer, the repair ship-landing craft Sphinx and a salvage vessel.

The typhoon, now headed out to sea northwest of Tokyo, caused great washouts, landslides and floods throughout southern Japan.

National rural police revised downward an earlier casualty report and said five persons were killed by the storm when it cut a wide swath across Kyushu and southern Honshu islands. Earlier reports had said 20 were killed.

The police also listed 13 persons missing and 63 injured.

The typhoon was reported by weather stations at 9 a.m. to be 40 miles of Japan's west coast and 200 miles northwest of Tokyo.

The police said the typhoon in its trip across southern Japan destroyed 191 houses, damaged 503, flooded 7,467, sank 90 small craft and left 10 others missing.

Friends Think Ike To Run

Paris (AP)—A large number of people who see Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower believe he will become a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination and will say so in the Spring.

Their idea is that when he makes the announcement he will get into the battle in characteristic high spirits to trample down the isolationism which they believe he feels is sprouting again in America.

It should not be overlooked that there are some who believe he thoroughly dislikes the idea of turning perhaps the last years of his life over to hard duty in the House. He was 61 years old yesterday. In times past he has expressed certain reservations about Army men going into public life.

Nevertheless, those who want him to run know that he has a strong sense of duty and they seem convinced that he feels his capacity for leadership is needed.

No one here talks much about the domestic issues which he would be asked to meet should he run. They feel the issue of foreign policy, especially the question of isolationism, will be enough to get him into the race. Eisenhower is against isolationism, and is especially against any which would turn America against Europe.

NIGHT FELL, and so did spirits of home-bound motorists passing through the Stroudsburgs yesterday. Scene from roof of building at Seventh St. looking west on Main St., shows fraction of Columbus day weekend traffic which jammed county roads from early afternoon until after dark. Tempers of motorists were frayed as old ropes, ankles tired from switching between accelerator and brake. Picture was taken at 6:30 p. m. Lane leading to west and north had opened slightly. On lane leading east to Route 611, cars remained clogged in double lines for another hour. (Daily Record Photo)

Long Weekend, Perfect Weather Attract Record Throng Of Motorists To Poconos

Traffic was at a standstill at many places throughout the county late yesterday as thousands of motorists took advantage of the long Columbus Day weekend and ideal weather to view the grandeur of the Pocono Mountains at Flaming Foliage time.

In Stroudsburg, borough police said the major traffic tieup occurred between 4 and 7 p. m. yesterday.

Boyle Quits But Inquiry To Continue

Washington (AP)—President Truman sought a new party chairman yesterday and a Republican senator asserted the resignation of William M. Boyle Jr., will not stop an inquiry into charges he used political influence on government loans.

Boyle is expected to issue a call today for the Democratic National committee to meet here about November 1 to act on his proffered resignation.

Senator Nixon (R-Calif.) issued a statement saying in "my opinion the (Boyle) investigation has just begun," and calling also for the resignation of Guy Gabrielson as chairman of the Republican National committee. Both Boyle and Gabrielson are on the pan in connection with loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corp.

"The disclosures of the future," Nixon said, "will make those which have come out to date seem insignificant in comparison.

"The Boyle case has already produced many new leads indicating that a number of political figures may have received fees in payment for their influence.

"I also hope that Mr. Gabrielson will follow Mr. Boyle's example. While Mr. Gabrielson's case is in no way comparable to Mr. Boyle's, as I stated last week, he should resign now so that this investigation can continue without any false issues being raised by those under investigation."

Veteran Postoffice Employee Held For Theft of $85,000

Lancaster, (AP)—C. Donald Furlow, 47, postoffice foreman and postal employee 25 years, is charged with stealing $85,000 from registered mail. After a hearing before U. S. Commissioner Mark Eaby he was committed to Lancaster police station in default of $12,000 bail.

Postal inspectors termed "fantastic" Furlow's story that an acquaintance known to him only as "Joe" was responsible for the theft. Furlow told authorities that "Joe" approached him early in September and gave him the $85,000 for safekeeping.

"And I gave him a receipt for it," the inspectors quoted Furlow as saying.

Inspector Harry Kimbell disclosed that the theft was reported September 17, but did not indicate how it was discovered. He said most of the stolen funds were recovered from a sizable bank account opened by Furlow soon after the money disappeared.

Kimbell added that the inspectors found that Furlow gave some of the money to two old friends in Richfield, Pa., the home town of his wife. The two unidentified friends were not arrested immediately but Kimbell said he intends to confer with U. S. Attorney Gerald A. Gleason in Philadelphia today on the possibility of lodging charges against them.

Some of the money given the Juniata county men also was recovered.

Father Pleads For Return Of Kidnaped Baby

Michigan City, Ind. (AP)—A heartbroken father broadcast an appeal yesterday for good care of his five-day-old son, taken from a hospital nursery late Saturday.

Police of three states said they were virtually without a clue in the disappearance of Lawrence James Lyons from St. Anthony's hospital.

In a broadcast over the Michigan City radio station, the father, James Lyons, a 37-year-old auto service station operator—his voice choked and halting—pleaded "I'd like to say please take good care of our baby."

Lyons continued: "Don't harm him, and return him to the hospital, police station or to our home at 616 Wabash." He then described the baby's formula.

"I just brought my wife home from the hospital. She said she felt like she was going home from a funeral. What was to have been our happiest day, when we took the baby home, has turned out to be our saddest."

The child's mother, 37-year-old Frances Lyons, was to have stayed in the hospital several days to recover from her operation but doctors decided she should be taken home yesterday.

"She was in a ward," Det. Capt. Charles Hanke said, "and she was gradually going to pieces, watching babies brought in to the other mothers."

One lead in the case evaporated yesterday when a green-coated woman reported leaving the hospital with a baby late Saturday was identified as a mother taking her twins home.

Detectives Roscoe Stevenson and Abe Mackway of Michigan City police said Marlene Lubs, a nurse's aid on duty in the nursery, told them someone asked her about 4:15 p.m. Saturday "which baby was the Lyons baby?"

"I didn't even look around," she said. "I was so busy, I just pointed to the baby. I don't even remember if it was a man or woman."

Crime Rate Up In First Six Months Of Year

Washington (AP)—The arrests of minor American girls for "offenses against common decency" rose 12.6 per cent in the first half of this year, as compared with the corresponding period a year ago, an FBI report said yesterday.

Such offenses were defined as prostitution and commercial vice and other sex offenses, disorderly conduct, vagrancy, etc.

By comparison, the arrests of males under 21 years of age for offenses against common decency increased 2.5 per cent. On all types of arrest, there was a decrease of 0.7 per cent for minor males and an increase of 7.2 per cent for minor females.

Crime in America rose 5.1 per cent in the cities and 4 per cent in the rural areas in first half of 1951, as compared with the same period in 1950.

The report said "more persons 23 years of age were arrested during the first half of 1951 than any other age group."

Persons who have not been contacted may make their contribution at Chest headquarters in Stroudsburg Security Trust Co. building.

Preliminary Talks Resume As Ridgway Admits Allied Strafing Of Kaesong Zone

Munsan, Korea, Monday, (AP)—Allied and Communist liaison officers met for three hours today on resumption of Korean armistice talks shortly after Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway told the Reds that Allied planes had strafed neutral Kaesong.

There was no immediate announcement whether the liaison officers made any progress. They adjourned their talks at Panmunjom at 1 p. m. (11 p. m., EST, Sunday).

The supreme Allied commander broadcast his "heartfelt grief" over the death of a 12-year-old Korean boy and the wounding of the lad's two-year-old brother in the strafing. Kaesong is the former site of the armistice talks just two miles south of parallel 38.

Ridgway's message was delivered by helicopter to Panmunjom less than two hours before Allied and Communist liaison officers met at 10 a.m. to seek a way of resuming the stalled armistice talks.

The message, broadcast earlier, was in reply to an oral complaint by the Reds. It was felt the frank admission and expression of sympathy may help to get the talks going again.

Ridgway's message to the top Red commander, Korean Gen. Kim Il Sung and Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-Huai, said that "prompt and appropriate" disciplinary action would be taken.

Keystone State's Citizens Start Singing Praises Of Their Commonwealth Today

Harrisburg, (AP)—The Keystone State's citizens start singing the praises of the Commonwealth today as the sixth annual observance of Pennsylvania week swings into high gear.

For the next seven days Pennsylvania's 10,000,000 residents will take part in some way in the celebration telling about the historical, religious, industrial, and economic wealth of the State.

This year's observance is aimed at local community participation with State officials asking that each township, borough, and city tell its own story to its citizens and to the rest of the State.

The communities are being asked to spread the word through every type of communication available—the newspaper, radio, television, public exhibits, parades, and so forth.

Churches, schools, commerce and industry are expected to join in the observance.

Gov. John S. Fine opened the program last night by telling a nation-wide audience "Pennsylvania has everything. It is the outstanding industrial state in the Union. It has the finest highways. The Pennsylvania turnpike is the road wonder of the Nation."

"Our health program is being greatly improved for service to our people and it will keep our workers healthy and fit to maintain Pennsylvania in the pre-eminent place it enjoys as the Nation's greatest producer of defense materials."

Fine spoke over a nationwide radio hookup on the United States Steel program.

I. S. Sahli, Beaver Falls, chairman of this year's program, said: "When we suggested that the observance be a grass roots affair stressing the defense theme we wanted to have the committees themselves devise their own plans for participation. And they have done a magnificent job."

Speeding Auto Crashes; Five Youths Killed

East Norwich, N. Y., (AP)—Five youths were killed yesterday when their auto careened off Northern boulevard here and crashed into a number of trees and concrete posts.

Police estimated the car was travelling between 80 and 100 miles an hour through the Long Island north shore town.

Carl F. Scott, 21, of Bayville, was thrown 80 feet by the impact and his body was not found until 35 minutes later. The other youths were found crushed to death in the almost disintegrated machine. One was decapitated and another lost an arm.

Allied Troops Smash Ahead Almost At Will

U. S. Eighth Army Hqs., Korea, Monday, (AP)—Allied infantry smashed ahead another mile and a half early today against what appeared to be a possible Chinese Red collapse in central Korea.

It was the third straight day that three Allied divisions attacked along a 22-mile front below Kumsong, a Communist supply and staging depot some 30 miles north of Parallel 38.

Kumsong is well protected by mountains.

AP Photographer Bob Schultz reported from the front that American and South Korean foot soldiers made gains of 3,000 yards in the first four hours of their attack today.

Schultz said the gains of almost a mile and a half were made "against an astonishing lack of Chinese resistance."

In the assaulting forces were troops of the U. S. 24th Division, and the South Korean Second and Sixth Divisions.

The Allies troops captured five hills. This raised their total hill bag for three days to 24.

Schultz said the divisions reported they had killed a total of 4,291 Reds and had taken 277 prisoners. If these figures are accurate, it would mean that the Communists have lost nearly a full division in three days of fighting.

It was uncertain whether the Allied successes were the result of a Chinese collapse or whether the Allied forces were hitting poor quality screening troops.

At some points Allied forces have fought forward as much as five miles in the three-day offensive.

In Sunday's fighting the troops on the central front gained more than a mile.

Egyptians To Reject West's Plan For Suez

Cairo, (AP)—An influential member of Parliament and several Cairo newspapers predicted yesterday Egypt will quickly reject the western power plan to make the Suez an international defense base.

The proposal made Saturday by the United States, Britain, France and Turkey would replace British troops in the Suez with an international force of the world-wide defense against Communism. Egypt would be dealt in as a full partner.

Egypt also is expected to turn down new British proposals for the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan and a Cabinet official hinted an ouster campaign may be started against the Sudan's British governor-general, Sir Robert Howe.

Howe introduced the new British plan for the Sudan to his executive council in Khartoum and said he would resist any attempt to change the administration. The new plan rejects Egyptian demands and calls for an international commission to advise Britain and Egypt.

Egypt has announced intentions of forcing British troops out of the Suez area and placing the million-square-mile Sudan under the crown of King Farouk after 53 years of nominal rule by Britain and Egypt.

The British have said they will use force if necessary to keep troops in the Suez.

Sunday Movies Up For Vote

Two area communities are listed among 55 in the State that will ballot November 6 on the Sunday movies question.

Both Hamilton township, Monroe county, and Bangor residents will be asked to vote "yes" or "no" to the question of legally showing motion pictures on Sunday.

Of the 53 other communities, Erie is the largest city with a local option contest. Church forces are attempting to outlaw Sunday movies there.

Major opposition to Sunday movies is being conducted by the Lord's Day Alliance whose spokesman, Rev. Melvin M. Forney, said the large number of communities voting on Sunday movies is due in part to "the popularity of drive-in theatres."

Bow-Arrow Hunters Take To Woods Today In Pursuit Of Deer; Season Lasts Two Weeks

For that occasional hunting fan who has always yearned for a more sportsmanlike weapon than those infallible, modern, sure-death guns, a new organization in Pennsylvania promises renewed hope and interest.

The organization is called, predictably, the Pennsylvania Bow Hunters and has been founded exclusively for the purpose of rounding up archery enthusiasts who would also like to become expert hunters with the bow.

Traffic Clogs Pocono Highways

000 cars passed over each bridge during the day.

Traffic was listed as "heavy to moderately heavy" by officials at the Dingmans Ferry bridge and State police at Milford.

Elsewhere in the Pocono area, Mount Pocono State police reported traffic as heavier than the past several weekends but moving in spurts. Highways in that region were not packed.

Residents of the Stroudsburgs, however, had good cause for complaint. Downtown traffic had been tied up worse than ever before in history, veteran observers said. Lines of cars sat idly on side streets waiting their turn to get on the highways. Local citizens who had entertained foolish notions of getting out of the house after dinner either parked the family automobile and walked or gave up, finally, in disgust.

Two Boys Hit By Cars On County Roads

Despite the heaviest traffic in the county for years, State police yesterday reported only two accidents.

Each involved a young boy pedestrian — one in Mount Pocono, the other in Saylorsburg.

At Saylorsburg, Harry Shoemaker walked over from his home at 6 p.m. to see why motorists on Route 115 were excited, found his son, Terry, 8, had been struck.

Brodheadville State police said the boy had been gathering corn in a field nearby, planning to use it for Halloween decorations.

Returning home, he dodged through a jammed line of traffic, police said, was hit by the left rear fender of a car driven by James Mills, Bethlehem.

The boy suffered bruises on the forehead, nose and left leg, was released after treatment by Dr. Lewis Reese, Gilbert.

The other accident, at 8:45 p.m. on Route 611, a mile south of Mount Pocono, involved David O'Donnell, 10, of Highland inn, Mount Pocono.

Mount Pocono State police said the boy apparently ran across the street, failed to see the on-coming car of Oliver Burwell, 44, Ontario, Canada.

The child was knocked down, suffered broken right leg. He was taken to the office of Dr. Lee O. Headrick, Mount Pocono, for treatment.

Police said there has been no arrest, but investigation is continuing.

Nearly All Wounded GIs Saved When Blood Supply Available At Battlefront

Blood donations from American citizens have dried up to a trickle, in comparison with the casualty rate in Korea.

Because of it, the Army is now forced to take blood from its own soldiers, both in the U. S. and on the Korean battlefields.

At a Red Cross conference at Williamsport late last week, LeRoy Mikels, chairman of the blood donor committee of the Red Cross in Monroe county, was told by an Army surgeon just back from Korea:

"In our hospital in Korea, 98.5 per cent of all wounded men are saved—provided they have an ample supply of blood."

The critical need for plasma and for whole blood has been widely known by civilians since the miracles it accomplished in World War Two.

Nevertheless, Mikels pointed out, the supply of blood now is so short that the armed forces and Red Cross have set up permanent units on military grounds to take blood from military personnel.

Each unit meets an assigned quota daily. The exact amount is kept secret. It revealed, it presumably might indicate the casualty rate.

Because of the casualty rate, and the growing shortage of blood, Monroe county Red Cross units are joining those of the nation in intensified efforts to boost the number of civilian donors.

The bloodmobile unit will be at the Elks Lodge on Washington St., East Stroudsburg, on Tuesday, October 23, from 1 to 6 p. m.

Blood taken will replenish the supply at Monroe County General hospital and will swell military reserves as well.

Mikels urged area residents to meet the bloodmobile in East Stroudsburg, October 23 or to call Red Cross headquarters at Stroud-

50,000 See Princess At Niagara Falls

Niagara Falls, Ont. (AP)—An estimated 50,000 persons jammed Queen Victoria park and the promenade along the Niagara river yesterday, but not many looked at the falls. The Princess was here.

Princess Elizabeth and her husband, Prince Philip, the Duke of Edinburgh, viewed the falls from both the brink and the base. They donned waterproof coats to protect themselves from the swirling mist.

The falls themselves were at their best for the royal visit. They sparkled in the crisp autumn sunshine, but for the thousands on hand for the occasion, the Princess was the first attraction.

The royal couple stole 40 minutes from a hectic three and a half hour tour of this tourist mecca to attend church.

They worshipped on this, the first Sunday of their Canadian tour, at Christ church, oldest Anglican church in the city.

This Is Pennsylvania Week

Among the hills, long rich in lore, lies Pennsylvania, a busy, friendly, pleasant land. We who are citizens of the Poconos, are in a region even more richly endowed. But, too often, we fail to appreciate it.

This is Pennsylvania Week. It is a week of observance during which all of us must participate and remind our selves that "Pennsylvania Has Everything."

It is literally true that you can drive around the World in Pennsylvania.

This state is the titan of industry and leader in agriculture. It is the home of more natural beauty, scenic wonders and historic shrines than any other state in the Nation.

Pennsylvania ranks first in the United States in 56 important industries. It leads all other states in mineral production. Some of its farming sections are among the most fertile in the world, and the State ranks second in value of eggs sold, fifth in cash income from milk.

Despite that 52 per cent of Pennsylvania is still covered with forests, ranging from tree-covered mountains to wooded dells and water courses in the lowlands.

The Poconos, rich with these endowments from Mother Nature, rank second to none in the World as a resort center—the scene of a major industry catering to the vacation, travel and tourist business.

We are indeed fortunate. Our economy here is bolstered on one hand by the resort industry and on the other by sound industrial manufacturing operations which help rank this State first in the United States.

You can participate in the glorification of your State at two events here this week.

The first is a Pennsylvania Week dinner at the Penn-Stroud Hotel at 6:30 p. m., Tuesday. Massed memberships of civic, service and other organizations, will hear Dr. Russell Teague, State Secretary of Health, outline Pennsylvania's new local county unit health plan.

Next Thursday night at 6:30 p. m. Business Education Day, a cooperative meeting between teachers of our educational system and local industry will be held at the Penn-Stroud. Teachers will study and observe industry's operation through special tours.

Remember, Pennsylvania Has Everything!

Two-Way Controls

The kind of price controls we get from the government is weak enough, without the government working against itself in the matter of holding—and breaking—the price line.

While Mike Di Salle is fighting with the cattle industry to hold down meat prices, the Agriculture Department is giving a leg up to grain prices.

Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson agrees the only way to stop inflation is to fix a line and stick to it, "regardless."

But his own office broke wage and price ceilings in the machine-tool industry—to get production. And raised the ceilings on zinc, lead and copper.

While the Office of Price Stabilization preaches to the farmers about the benefits of all-around price controls, the Agriculture Department raises flaxseed support 42 per cent!

Labor unions demand stricter controls on prices—and prepare for a campaign to get higher wages.

A hundred cotton-state congressmen, many of them loud in their complaints about administration laxity in enforcing controls, sign a statement urging cotton farmers to hold back their crops, for higher prices later. And the Agriculture Department takes part in the same campaign.

So you have the spectacle of the government going in two directions at the same time. And we pay for the ride.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A more unlikely duet than Wagnerian soprano Helen Traubel and the beloved but gravel-voiced comedian Jimmy Durante would be difficult to imagine, yet this pair not only convulsed a television audience with a rendition of some characteristic Durante songs, but has now recorded them for posterity on classical records.

Jimmy never soared so high in musical circles before, but modestly admits that the cause of the classification is a clause in Helen Traubel's contract restricting her records to that category. As for Miss Traubel, she is enjoying the escapade tremendously. She explained, with a twinkle in her eye, that "it was truly a pleasure to record with an 'artist' whose voice sounds just the same with a good needle or a bad one."

Sign outside a diner in Edinburg, Texas: "HOME COOKING. (I'll be back in two hours or so.)"

Hollywood

By Gene Handsaker

Hollywood—Glamor, say those supposedly in the know, is on the way back. You'll see fewer publicity photos of the screen queens peeling potatoes or darning hubby's socks. That just-like-the-girl-next-door theme is out, for, as one producer wisely asks: Who wants to pay a buck at the box-office to see the girl next door?

Don Loper, one of the town's leading drapers of the feminine form, claims he called this trend several years ago. During the war, diversion-hungry people jammed into see any old kind of movie.

"You could have photographed egg crates," Don says, "and people would've gone to see them. Now they're more choosy. You'll see more sophisticated scripts, and fashion will change accordingly."

Not only will on-screen wear be its most alluring, he predicts, but studios will lower the boom on any contractee who dares show up in public wearing a hairnet, T-shirt, and pedal-pushers. The accent will be on glamor. And what is glamor?

"Something you feel from within," explains this clothier of Greer Garson, Lana Turner, Betty Hutton, Diana Lynn, Anne Baxter, Joan Bennett, and others. "You've got to feel like a femme fatale—elegant, really beautiful."

As an example of the new trend he cites Eleanor Parker. Formerly she was a "delightfully simple child" who didn't care about clothes and thought of herself as an actress rather than a beauty. Now she's a "delightfully glamorous star" who appreciates fine duds and her own looks. Loper designed a 16-piece wardrobe for Eleanor to wear on a personal-appearance tour. It cost $25,000.

Dietrich, to Loper as well as many others, personifies the ultimate in glamor. He costumed her for a recent western. She was particular about "the beading under the beading that's never seen on a galloping horse—but she felt right in it."

"All women are interested in clothes," the designer declared, "or they're not interested in men. A woman who says she doesn't dress for men is out of her mind. Is it possible to be glamorous on a budget?"

These Days — By George E. Sokolsky

God And Man At Yale

William F. Buckley, Jr., is of the generation that must take over the management of this country during the next ten years or so, graduated from Yale in 1950. He had made quite a record for himself as editor of the "Yale Daily News," as a debater and as a student.

Buckley was driven by our confused world and the broken lives of our sons to wonder what he got at Yale in the way of an education. That is an upsetting question for a young fellow because then he has to ask himself what an education is.

Why does one go to college? Is it to get facts which can be culled out of books? Is it to meet athletic people such as appear nightly at Toots Shor's bar? Is it to build character, to gain inspiration, to round out a personality?

Having pondered over these questions, young Buckley wrote a book, "God and Man at Yale," which every parent who has a son or a daughter at college should read, study and think about.

For this is not an old man talking about a messed up or a lost generation. This is a young man who loves his college and who achieved distinction in it and who is describing its composition, its personnel, its responsibilities.

Perhaps, Buckley's dedication tells the whole story. It is "For God, for Country, and for Yale, in that order." And the order is the point of the book. If Yale does not serve God and Country, what does it serve? Buckley makes his position clear in this statement:

"... I contended that the trustees of Yale, along with the vast majority of the alumni, are committed to the desirability of fostering both a belief in God, and a recognition of the merits of our economic system. I therefore concluded that as our educational overseers, it was the clear responsibility of the trustees to guide the teaching at Yale toward those ends."

The charge will undoubtedly be made that Buckley is a religious bigot. What Buckley found at Yale, however, is atheistic bigotry; amoral bigotry; anti-capitalistic bigotry. It would seem to be intolerable to hold to one's faith, but tolerable to oppose all religion; it would seem to be cultural to stimulate curiosity concerning the varieties of socialism, but reactionary to believe in the economic and social system which developed our America over three centuries.

The question that this young man raises cannot be put down by denouncing his religious beliefs or his church affiliations, whatever they may be. His basic question is why our universities devote so much of their teaching time to a denunciation or so much that is fundamentally American.

And this question our colleges will have to answer to the parents of the students and to the alumni of these schools. John Chamberlain, in an introduction to this book, says:

"Professor Henry Steele Commager of Columbia University, who thinks that the university faculties, not the alumni or the parents of the students, should have final control over the aids of education, has virtually stated that the customer has no rights in the educational market place. Pursued to its logical conclusion, the Commager theory would end by setting up an elite of professional unteachables. The elite would perpetuate itself as it chose..."

Precisely that condition prevails. By shrieking "academic freedom!" the professors raise a false issue. For the charge against them often does not involve limitations upon freedom but upon the propagation of falsehood. For instance, the professor who said: "Chaplains accompanying modern armies are comparable to witch doctors accompanying tribes," may have been ignorant but it is more likely that he is a liar; and while his lie gets him a laugh, it does neither his country nor the students any good.

This is an important matter for parents, for while each one believes that his son or daughter could not be that way, the fact is that boys and girls of excellent families are now in jail for acting as Stalin's agents against their own country. And every investigation into the background of these smart, well-bred spies and traitors leads to the influences they encountered in college.

For this reason William F. Buckley's book, "God and Man at Yale," should be a parents' must this year.

Washington Report

By Fulton Lewis Jr.

Washington—Let's assume for the moment that Ambassador at Large Philip Jessup is right (which he isn't) when he says he had nothing to do with Communist Party fronts and the China sell-out, and that Senator Joseph R. McCarthy is wrong (which he isn't) when he says Jessup had an affinity for Red fronts and Chinese Communists.

The fact remains that a pro-Communist clique in the State department worked under the table night and day to subvert Free China at a time when it was making a final stand against Communist forces.

To argue whether Jessup, Owen Lattimore, John C. Vincent, John Service or Dean Acheson sat in the driver's seat steering the China sell-out is immaterial. If none of them was driving, at least they all were in the car. But to hear them talk now you'd think they served with Chiang Kai-shek's front line forces, firing at Communist troops and shouting death oaths at the Kremlin.

It's a pretty picture, but not true. Several of them made tracks all over Communist Party headquarters in China while the others worked in Washington to stir up trouble for Chiang. It's all on the record and more is being put there. Harold Stassen, to Acheson's everlasting embarrassment, has helped put it there, as has Senator Pat McCarran, chairman of the Senate Internal Security subcommittee.

What Acheson and his clique overlook is the fact that the American people have enough sense to know we're in trouble and maybe on the verge of war with Russia. Ask any mother with a son in Korea. But we still hear assurances that we are on the road to peace and that nobody, especially in the State department, ever helped promote Soviet causes.

Let's take a look at the record. There are a number of clear-cut, historic milestones on which to hang arguments that those in power now either created or adopted the foreign policy that put us in our present fix. Here are some of their accomplishments:

1. The recognition of Soviet Russia in 1933.
2. The military division of Germany and the World War II decision to allow Russia possession of half of Berlin.
3. Stripping China of her possessions at the Tehran, Yalta, San Francisco, Paris, London, Potsdam and Moscow conferences.

4. Violation of U. S. neutrality statutes in handing over destroyers to Great Britain, which established a precedent for Soviet intervention in Korea.

5. Suppression of the Wedemeyer and other reports on China.

6. Outing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as commander in Japan.

7. The blockade of Formosa, which even prohibited Nationalist Chinese aircraft from dropping guns and supplies to loyal Chinese forces behind Communist lines.

8. The decision to send 400 soldiers to Europe and build up defenses there to the detriment of free people in Asia, who have been the avowed targets of Soviet aggression since the days of Lenin.

There are others. These are just a rough outline of what we have to be thankful for as a result of present administration policies. We have, for instance, the chore of finding out who decided to supply Soviet Russia with billions of dollars worth of American arms and equipment following the end of the war; who is responsible for knowing to the British foreign office, and who mishandled defense preparations to the point that we were literally unarmed at the time of Korea.

Whenever Stassen or McCarran hangs the blame on Acheson or his buddies, the State department comes up with the "we can't find it in the files" routine,

My New York

New York — This city, perhaps more than any other in the world of today, has become a cellophane-wrapped, sanitized, vacuum-packed article. It is becoming next to impossible to find in it any remnant of yesterday's disorderly and gaudily dirty existence.

The slums are crumbling away before the bulldozers, as the airy and endlessly monotonous housing developments go up, the saloons are full of chrome stools and television sets, and the streets, oddly enough, are crowded with street-cleaners. An outlander might consider this a dirty town (and be correct), but it is as nothing compared with yesterday. We have become sanitary.

Thus, there is a certain excitement if, on a gray autumn afternoon, you come across the open air food markets of Ninth avenue on Manhattan's west side near midtown. It is as if you have turned the pages back 50 years.

For three blocks, the curbs and sidewalks are crowded with outdoor fruit and grocery stands, fish markets, vegetable stores. The prices are extraordinarily low, contrasted with uptown East Side prices, but the haggling is extraordinarily vigorous.

A babble of verbal warfare arises, to the scented counterpoint of salt fish, fruit and dust, and if you come upon the area unexpectedly by turning a corner you say to yourself this place is alive.

These food markets are almost unique; only the pushcarts of the lower East Side, along Orchard and Hester and Delancey streets, give off the same flavorful atmosphere. However, the pushcart peddlers seem to specialize in clothes, materials and notions; here, uptown, food is king.

Once, Ninth Avenue from 38th to 41st streets was a kind of meeting-place for the pushcarts, as downtown Orchard street is now. When the time came for the peddlers to expand their businesses or to settle down, it was only natural that they rented little stores in the same place. There they have remained. Many of the proprietors of the strange little stores have been there for years and will be there until they die.

Elsewhere in New York the fish and mutton chops are sold from behind glass showcases; here the flounder lie glass-eyed and staring, on trays of cracked ice right out in the open air. Bees and the naked torso of a fowl hang idly in the autumn afternoon and a customer who wants to make sure his side of lamb is fresh can go right up to the swinging corpse pinch it, poke it and sniff at it.

Spaghetti hangs from the ceiling in some stores and sharply pungent cheeses in many colors decorate rickety wooden counters. Sloppy salesmen hustle around, flapping their heavily hefting bunches of bananas, wiping their hands hastily on grimy aprons.

If you have been to Paris, you are reminded of the outdoor food stands there, yet in Paris they are an accepted, normal part of life, while here in New York they are symbols of a dying way of

I don't doubt it. We learned during the Tydings investigation that the State department at one point hired extra help to strip the files of damaging information. And the heat was mild then compared to what it is now.

But whatever is done by the department, not even Jessup, Lattimore, Vincent, Service and Acheson can hide the fact that Russian now controls China with her 400,000,000 people.

That's the record of the party of peace and they're stuck with it.

The meat of most poisonous snakes does not contain venom.

Louisiana, in 1922, became the first state in the Union to recognize a bird officially. It included a brown pelican on its seal.

Looking at Life

By Mel Heimer

existence, like a herd of bison crowded onto a reservation.

The majority of the store owners here along Ninth avenue are Italian, and they bring to work daily the quick tempers and the easy smile of Latins. Always there is an argument going on, and usually it is a proprietor telling a customer that he is absolutely stark, raving crazy not to buy these peppers or those tomatoes. "A blockhead!" you hear one yell at a boozey-looking gent customer. "You are a nut, you no buy these-a turnips. I waste-a no more time on-a you."

There is a pattern, a noisy kind of order, to Ninth avenue in the late Thirties, but if you look closely, there also is complete disorder. Here is a man selling paint brushes for a dollar; there is a peddler arguing politics with a fish-store owner. Buses skirt the area on their way to the new Port Authority Terminal, symbols of the Twentieth Century in an area whose progress seems to have ended back in the Nineteenth.

If it is an unusual fruit or vegetable you seek, this is the place to come, but to the sellers, there is nothing unusual. Good black olives, paprika, capers, thyme, provolone cheese, strange salamis — all are here for your dollar.

The word is that soon a supermarket is going to set up business on the outskirts of the Ninth avenue street scene, bringing sanitation and modernity with it. I suppose it is a good step but it will be a sad day. I can't exactly say why.

The Government has brought a suit under anti-trust laws to test whether sports promoters can withhold telecasts. "If a sport sells tickets it is offering a commodity to which the public is entitled," says the attorney general's office. Okay, but why isn't it also true of the theater and couldn't the public demand a television view of "South Pacific"?

Dizzy Dean did a world series commercial for a tire company in which he gave a demonstration of a tube that sealed the hole after he jabbed it with an icepick. "Get yourself an icepick, go down to your tire dealer right away and tell him Old Diz sent you to jab one of them tubes full of holes so you can see for yourself," urged Dizzy, and we understand something of a panic is on in tire stores. Not because a test isn't welcomed, but because a salesroom full of folks anxious to stab holes with icepicks can have its complications.

During the broadcasts of a world series we always wonder what the effect of the razor blade commercial is upon a man who deliberately wears a long beard . . . Al Dark declared on a video show during the series that he thought the Dodgers a tougher club over a season than the Yankees, "although in a short series it might not be true." . . . Premier Mossadegh is in a hospital but he doesn't feel half as sick as his opponents.

Mrs. Roosevelt finds the cafeteria in the U. N. home too small and says there is an opportunity for a good restaurant across the street. Such a restaurant was the basis of the funniest sketch Sid Caesar ever did and we wish he would revive it.

In "Music In The Air" the music is in the air but the book gets in your hair . . . John McCaffrey who used to do Author Meets the Critics is doing a news commentary on video and gets over in a big way, say we.

Bert Lahr's sketch on a baseball pitcher of the "You Know Me, Al" type went over big during the world series . . . It will seem like old times going to the Palace for the revival of big-time vaudeville next week . . . Remember away back when the movie was thrown on the screen just to empty the theater after the variety show? . . . Who remembers the old-time acts of Ward & Vicks, The Virginia Judge, Lew Dockstader, Gallagher & Shean, Annette Kellerman, the Four Cohans, Irene Franklin and Ed Wynn in his original man of the many hats stunt?

Video is creating a greater demand for fresh talent and new ideas than any agency has created in years, and it seems to be back that vaudeville may be really back in a big way this time.

Church Choir Entertained At Dinner

The senior choir of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church was entertained following the regular rehearsal last week at the Indian Queen hotel by the Fidelia class, Mrs. Miles Green, teacher, and the Ladies' Aid society.

Highlight of the evening was the talk given by Mrs. Green on music in the Bible. During the course of her remarks based on considerable research she showed the prominent part music played in the Old Testament times. She also exhibited a number of old-time hymnals which proved most interesting.

Mrs. Sadie Yetter welcomed the choir members and Rev. Dr. P. N. Wohlson, pastor, offered prayer.

Refreshments of ice cream, cake, coffee and nuts were served at a table centered with a miniature choir including the tiny piano. A pleasant social time was enjoyed.

Enraged Bull Kills Couple

Durango, Ia. (AP) — An enraged bull yesterday killed a farmer and his wife.

The tragedy occurred in a pasture of a farm near Durango, about nine miles west of Dubuque. The victims were Mike Magerus, 66, and his 62-year-old wife.

Deputy Sheriff John Murphy said there apparently was no living witness to the incident. He said the bodies were found by Leroy Magerus, son of the victims, who went in search of them when they failed to return from the pasture.

He found the gored and trampled bodies, with the bull standing close to them. Murphy and Deputy Coroner Norbert Behr borrowed a neighbor's dog to drive the bull from the pasture so the bodies could be removed.

'Toy' Revolver Disarms Robber

New York, (AP) — Norman Ackerman, a grocery store owner, didn't know the gun was loaded.

When a hold-up man pointed it at him, Ackerman thought it was a toy and calmly disarmed the man — only to discover it was a full-loaded .32 calibre revolver.

"Then I was terrified," Ackerman said later.

And meanwhile the robber grabbed $35 and fled from the store.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Although the fire from the "Battle of the Boroughs" has subsided considerably, the heat still rises from the smoldering ashes and with it comes the usual after-game talk. This year the street-corner experts are content to talk about two or three plays, which they state enabled Stroudsburg to win, or if you would like to transpire the thought, caused East Stroudsburg to lose. However, after playing the game over in my mind at least 3,625 times, I have come to the conclusion that the contest was won or lost before either club lined up for the kickoff.

The game, as sure as you'll have to straighten out your income tax in March, was lost in the East Stroudsburg High school gymnasium and won in the dressing room occupied by a Stroudsburg High eleven that was "up" for Friday's contest more than any other contest played this season. Many people will ask how a game, especially football, can be decided before the two clubs even take part in one play? I will attempt to answer that question to the best of my ability in the following paragraphs.

Although many people are still of the opinion that the late arrival of the East Stroudsburg team was some strategy resorted to by Coach Jack Kist, quite the opposite was true. The fault, I have found, lies with the East Stroudsburg school, but it was completely unintentional, of this I am absolutely certain. The failure of arriving on time rests with someone in the N. Courtland St. school, outside of the coaching staff, and certainly not with the bus company, which has been falsely accused by many during the past weekend.

The bus was expected to arrive in time to give the Cavaliers an extra long warm up session on Gordon Giffels field and not the eight minutes which the club was finally allowed. However, when the bus hadn't arrived by 7:30 the youngsters undoubtedly began to wonder. It was 7:30 and no bus and then 8 o'clock and still no bus. Even the most hardened of athletes would have become a little jittery at this time. Kist took matters into his own hands at this point and the Cavaliers made the short trip by automobile, although it was a direct violation of a school board ruling. The East-burg school board has a standing rule that no athletes or athletic teams will be transported by private car.

A short warmup session, an even shorter chat in the dressing room and the East Stroudsburg eleven reported to the field for action, although by this time the game was a half hour late in starting. It was the same East Stroudsburg team on the field that had run up two straight victories, it ran, blocked, passed and punted like it has in the past, maybe even a little better, but it wasn't the same band of Mountaineers that we watched lose three of its first four games.

Coach Jerry Stulgaitis, who deserves the highest amount of praise possible for gaining his seventh straight victory, seized on a golden opportunity to fire his club up once and for all for this biggest of big games and the kids were as anxious for the fire as a newly purchased firecracker. The Mountaineers reported to the field for the game—no opposition. The maroon and white club went back to its dressing room and returned to the field a second time—still no opposition. That was it! Stulgaitis and assistant Sam Wells needed to say very little to their charges when they returned to the locker room the second time to make them come from their corner tacking and snarling.

The Mountaineers jumped on the Cavaliers right off the bat for eight points, even before most of us could enjoy a chatter or two brought on by the chell. Eight points on a safety and brilliant touchdown run by Dave Shook, who played a brilliant role in the Stroudsburg victory, came almost simultaneously with the opening whistle. The Cavaliers fought back, in fact they came back better than any other East Stroudsburg club in history.

However, Stroudsburg was blazing with the spirit that goes with a winning team. The club's mental outlook on the game had been improving steadily by leaps and bounds all week, until it hit its peak at a pep rally Friday afternoon. However, when the Mountaineers were kept waiting for half an hour, a choice word or two here and there sent the spirit gauge over the safety mark and the Stroudsburg eleven was ready to do business.

This column isn't being written as an alibi for the East Stroudsburg eleven the club wouldn't tolerate that, although many of the narrow minded people who follow sports in this area will undoubtedly use this column as another brickbat. Rather, these few paragraphs are a tribute to a fine Stroudsburg eleven that had the initiative and intelligence to grasp a behind-the-scene factor and use it as a winning weapon. It's this kind of stuff of which good football teams are composed.

Shippensburg Inflicts First Loss Of Campaign On East Stroudsburg State Teachers

Shippensburg—East Stroudsburg State Teachers College suffered the sting of defeat for the first time in 1951 here on Saturday, when a big and rugged Shippensburg band of Red Raiders ran over the Warriors, 33-7. At the present time both teams support identical records of two victories and one setback in the State Teachers College Conference.

Baldwin To Present "Jug"

Marty Baldwin, local sportsman and one of the major factors behind the "Little Brown Jug" as an annual award for the winner of the "Battle of the Boroughs," will make the 1951 presentation at Stroudsburg High school today, during a special assembly program, at 11:30 a. m.

Frank Armitage and Alden "Red" Fetherman, co-captains of the Mountaineers, will accept the "Jug" from Baldwin. Alfred W. Munsin, school principal, and Jerry Stulgaitis, head grid mentor, will also be featured on the program. The assembly will be part of the post-game celebration following Stroudsburg's seventh straight victory over East Stroudsburg.

Junior Varsity Foes Battle

Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg High schools return to the football wars today, but this time it will be the junior varsity grid machines of the respective schools going at each other at Gordon Giffels field. The game is slated to begin at 4 p. m.

Action
 East Stroudsburg will undoubtedly be out to make up for its loss to Stroudsburg in the varsity game, while the Mountaineers will be just as determined to follow in the footsteps of its upper classmen. The two inter-borough rivals usually clash the Monday following the varsity scrap between the two schools.

It was a case of too much power and size, as Shippensburg scored one touchdown in each of the first two periods then came through with three six-pointers in the third.

stanza. ESSTC saved itself further humiliation by breaking the scoring tie in the final period.

Ed Gerlock, one of the hardest running backs on the field, broke the scoreless play in the first period, when the veteran quarterback slammed over from the one foot line.

Second Touchdown
 The second period score came on the good right arm of Dick Kopek, who passed 30 yards to Ken Dapp, who in turn caught the pigskin in the ESSTC endzone. End Johnny Russ converted the extra point after both first half touchdowns and the home team led at halftime, 14-0.

Shippensburg ran wild in the third period for three sixpointers. Walt Galbreich passed to Hershel Ulrich for 30 yards and a touchdown. Gerlock came right back to toss a 20-yard pass to Dapp, who went over for his second touchdown. Russ intercepted an ESSTC pitchout and ran ten yards for the Red Raider's first touchdown. Russ then added his third extra point of the day.

ESSTC averted a shutout in the final period when reserve halfback Ed Bishop brought a 50-yard march to an end by plying over from the five yard stripe. Bishop then added the extra point from placement.

The Warriors return to action on Saturday, with West Chester invading Normal Hill for a special "Homecoming Day" contest.

Mays To Take Exam

Newport News, Va. (AP) — Willie Mays, 20-year-old rookie outfield star of the New York Giants, left a barnstorming baseball troupe here last night to return home to Birmingham, Ala., for a pre-induction physical exam.

Appearing here with Roy Campanella's All-Star, who are playing a series of exhibition games with the team of major leaguers headed by Gil Hodges, the Giant rookie said he was due to take the exam October 23.

Hackettstown averted a shut-out by scoring seven points in the final period with Bill Pierce scoring the touchdown and also kicking the extra point.

Giants Hold Edge In Pro Football Loop

By Ed Corrigan

New York, (AP)—The New York Giants took over as kingpins of the American Conference of the National Football league yesterday, but the National Division emerged a tangled deadlock for first place among five of the six teams.

The Giants defeated the Chicago Cardinals, 28-17, not only to take over the loop lead but also to remain the only unbeaten team in the league. Steve Owen's men have two victories and one tie—their opener against the Pittsburgh Steelers.

The five-way tie in the National Conference involves Detroit, the Chicago Bears, Green Bay, Los Angeles and San Francisco. Only the hapless New York Yanks, who lost their third in a row without a victory—this one to the Bears, 24-21—do not own a share of first place.

The big upset of the day took place in Green Bay where the Packers upended the Philadelphia Eagles, a heretofore unbeaten outfit, 37-24. The other three scheduled games went as expected with San Francisco polishing off Pittsburgh, 28-24; Los Angeles defeating Detroit, 27-21, and Cleveland blanking Washington, 45-0.

The Giants had no sinecure in beating the Cards. They were behind 17-14, going into the final period, and their passing game had been stopped cold. But the New Yorkers switched their tactics in the fourth quarter and resorted to a ground attack to wrap it up. Eddie Price went for 25 yards for one score and Kyle Rote went 12 for another after Jim Duncan had intercepted a Charley Hrippi pass.

Personal Show
 The Packers' victory was a personal show by Bobby Thomson, who tossed for three touchdowns. His chief assistants were Tobin Rotex, who pitched for another score and Bob Summerhays, who ran an interception 88 yards for the other tally.

The first half wound up in a 7-7 standoff, but footballs were all over the field in the third and fourth quarters, with the Packers notching ten points in the third chukker and 20 in the finale.

The defending champion Browns took advantage of every Redskins lapse and the result was that three of their touchdowns and one field goal were manufactured out of Washington fumbles. The Browns scored in every period, and made all but one of their touchdowns along the ground.

Only in the final minutes did the Browns take to their usual method of attack—the air—with Cliff Lewis threw a 20-yard pass to Bob Oristaglio for the final marker.

The Yanks made it close and threw a real scare into the Bears by notching three touchdowns with less than three minutes to go. But the rally fell short. Bob Celeri, relief passer, hit on seven of his eight attempts, pitching for one of the scores and setting up another.

For the Bears, Johnny Lujack tossed for one touchdown and tallied another himself.

Bob Waterfield was the big thorn in the side of the Lions. He personally accounted for 20 of the Rams' points via two passes and a pair of field goals. Jack Christianson, rookie Lion back, went over twice on punt returns.

Frank Albert was the top man in the 49ers' triumph over the Steelers. Behind 10-7 at the half, the winners hit for three touchdowns in the third quarter with Albert doing the bulk of the passing and running.

Stranahan Triumphs

Fort Smith, Ark. (AP)—Frank Stranahan, Toledo links wizard, won the twentieth annual Willard Memorial Golf Tournament here yesterday, defeating George Bigman, an Oklahoma A. & M. College student.

At the same time, power-packed California, which has 38 straight regular season victories, is host to Southern California at Berkeley in a game that will go far toward deciding the Pacific Coast Conference championship.

Southern Cal, loser only to Camp Pendleton, beat Oregon State Saturday, 16-14.

Tennessee, number three nationally, takes on traditionally tough Alabama in their annual bone-crushing melee and the fact Alabama has lost three games will make the Crimson Tide only that much more cantankerous.

The biggest surprise was that scored by twice-beaten Southern Methodist over Notre Dame.

Barrett Team Wins Lions' Fall Foliage Golf Tournament For Second Straight Year

Buck Hill Falls—Barrett won the Lions' Fall Foliage Golf Tournament here yesterday for the second straight year, with Stroudsburg second and Portland third. The winning scores for Barrett were Mike Megargle, 73; Joe Snow, 74; Paul Miller, 87, and Earl Thomas, 91, for a team total of 325 strokes. Barrett will be honored with a plaque.

Stroudsburg's tabulations were Harold Storm, 79; Bill Rusk, 96; Williams Hinton, 105, and Elton Hall, 117. Portland featured Sid Effross with 93; William Starner, 99; Russ Reimer, 101, and Woodrow Reimer, 111.

Champion
 Megargle's low score also made him champion of Lion Zone "A". The Barrett star also won the longest drive honors with a belt of 236 yards. Miller was second and Effross third, with 235 and 230 yard socks respectively.

Snow won the Calloway Handicap Tournament with a 74-371 count, while the remainder of the leaders were as follows:

Newton Scores In First Three Periods To Take Measure Of Roseto Under Lights, 19-6

Newton, N. J.—Newton, currently pacing the New Jersey Pro league, took the measure of the Roseto Redskins here Saturday night, 19-6, in a contest playing under the lights. The home team scored in the first period and was never headed thereafter.

Don Roveda banged over from the one-yard line in the first period, after a blocked Roseto kick had set up the score. Tom Wright missed the extra point.

Newton fought its way back into the scoring column again in the third round when Art Armstrong made the touchdown possible by returning a punt from his own 22 to the Roseto eight-yard line. Wright then went off tackle for the touchdown. The same Wright added the extra point from placement.

Final Tally
 The final Newton touchdown came in the fourth period when Roveda returned a punt 40 yards for the six-pointer. Wright again missed the extra point.

Roseto's lone six-pointer came on a 70-yard drive in the third period, with "Joe E. Brown" Racciato going over from the one-yard line. An attempted line plunge failed to gain the extra point.

The Redskins swing back into action next Sunday, with Miller Heights providing the opposition at Bangor's Memorial Park.

Starting a second century of service and progress

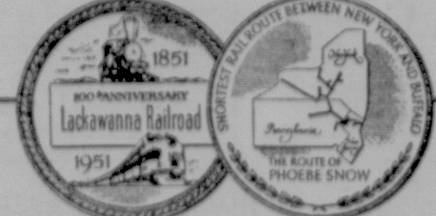

1851
Lackawanna
Centennial
1951

It was a moment of great expectation, that day in October, 1851. The boiler of the little engine was fired up... there was a rush of steam... the plucky little train picked up speed and moved out of the station. A dramatic journey had started along the route that was later to be part of the Lackawanna Railroad.

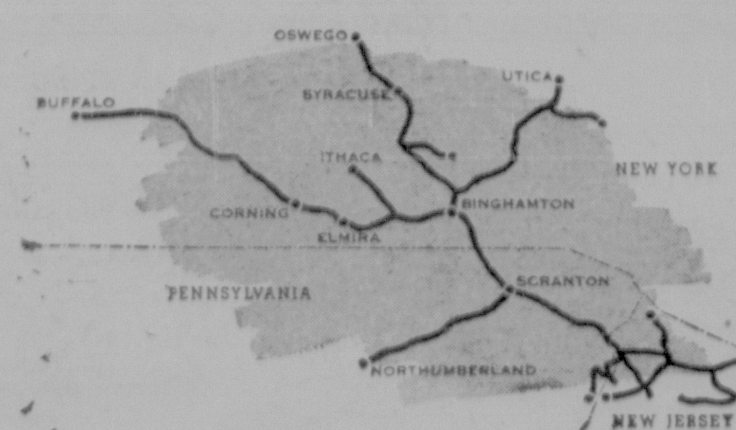

From that modest beginning a century ago, the Lackawanna has grown with America. Over the years we have continuously expanded and improved our facilities, our equipment and our service to keep pace with the industrial growth of the communities we serve. Together we have prospered under a system of free enterprise and competition in which the unhampered efforts of individual freedom have best served the needs of the people.

The Lackawanna's job is to provide safe, fast and dependable transportation of passengers and freight. We, the men and women of the Lackawanna, look back with pride to the accomplishments of the past. Now, as our railroad enters its second century, we pledge ourselves to provide even better transportation service in the years to come.

It's Your Pennsylvania—Keep it growing PENNSYLVANIA WEEK—OCTOBER 15-21

And this year it means more than ever

Pennsylvania Week is the time when we let people know about our state and our community. We want to attract people . . . industry . . . prosperity. We do it by focusing attention on what our community has to offer those who want to share in the good things Pennsylvania has.

This year, Pennsylvania Week means something more. The good life that Pennsylvania helped fashion for America is threatened. Pennsylvania has a vital role in meeting that threat.

KEYSTONE OF THE NATION . . . BULWARK OF DEFENSE

Pennsylvania already out-produces the world in many of the things we need for defense. More billions of dollars worth of productive facilities are being built here. All this productive power must be backed by man power.

That's where you come in.

Whatever job you have to do . . . do it like a Pennsylvanian.

Wyckoff's have grown with the state by selling these famous brands Pennsylvania Products
